

ABOUT THE INTERNSHIP

Our competitive remote internships are designed to provide aspiring editors, publishers, and writers with the vital experience and connections needed to succeed in the literary industry.

INTERNS WILL:

- ◆ Edit fiction, nonfiction, and poetry submissions from emerging and established authors
- ◆ Assist with publishing F(r)iction
- ◆ Market literary works
- ◆ Learn crucial InDesign production skills
- ◆ Build relationships with authors, agents, and publishers
- ◆ Interview authors and review new books

APPLY TODAY

ABOUT BRINK

Brink Literacy Project is an international literacy nonprofit dedicated to empowering underserved voices, increasing literacy rates, and fostering a love of literature.

ABOUT F(R)ICTION

F(r)iction is a nationally-distributed collection of literature and art. Published triannually and printed in full, gorgeous color, F(r)iction highlights the very best in boundary-pushing literature and art.

FIND OUT MORE AT
BrinkLit.org

BRINK PUBLISHING INTERNSHIP

Work in Publishing and Editing with the International Literary Organization:
Brink Literacy Project

BRINK PUBLISHING INTERNSHIPS

- ✓ Make Connections
- ✓ Earn College Credit
- ✓ Build Your Resume
- ✓ Edit Professionally
- ✓ Enhance Your Skills

Brink Literacy Project offers two remote internship sessions every year. Working alongside industry professionals, interns receive intensive training in literary editing, publishing, and marketing. Through our resource center and in-house publisher, interns work with emerging and celebrity authors, helping to bring great literature to light.

Each internship provides students with the opportunity to build connections with our community of authors, agents, publicists, and editors, developing the foundation necessary for a successful literary career.

APPLICATION DEADLINES

Spring Internship

- ◆Applications Open: August 1st
- ◆Application Deadline: December 1st
- ◆Referrer Deadline: December 15th
- ◆Cycle Runs: Jan – Apr

Fall Internship

- ◆Applications Open: March 1st
- ◆Application Deadline: July 1st
- ◆Referrer Deadline: July 15th
- ◆Cycle Runs: Aug – Nov

Applicants are responsible for letting their referrers know when and how to send in their letters of recommendation. Full details about our procedure are provided within the internship application form.

From the slush pile
to the printed page, Brink's interns play a vital role in bringing great literature to the world.

INTERN TESTIMONIAL

"The internship program and wonderful people at Brink have taught me so much about writing and publishing, and I can definitely envision myself using what I learned now in future career paths. By receiving training in editing, I learned about what I value in a story, and this impacted my own growth as a writer as well. Being able to do direct outreach with different authors also helped to broaden my view of the literary community, and I'm excited to continue my publishing journey with these new skills."

—Miki Schumacher, Fall 2020 Intern

HOW TO APPLY:

Fill in Application

Submit
Application

Request
Reference

QUESTIONS?

Email us: intern@brinklil.org